

*I had my date with Jesus
Just the other day.
I heard him coming down the hall,
Heading straight my way.*

*Stopping at the door he said,
I've wondered where you've been
I'm going back to Heaven
Would I like to go with Him?*

*My memory full and fading,
From all the things I've done.
The games are getting hard to play,
Becoming not as fun.*

*I'm getting tired of shaking,
It's really hard to talk.
How far is it to heaven?
It seems too far to walk.*

*Just come with me I'll take you there,
Jesus said to me.
Your family knows you're going
It's time to set you free.*

*I'm going home with Jesus,
It's a better place for me.
If you wonder where I've gone,
In Heaven is where I'll be.*

September 5, 1941 — May 25, 2024

Henry Thomas Sievers was born September 5, 1941, on the family farm near Wessington, South Dakota, to parents, Draper and Christabelle (Mitchell) Sievers. He grew up on the farm and graduated from Wessington High School in 1959.

On December 23, 1962, Hank married Jacqueline Chipman at Sun Beam Church, north of Vayland, South Dakota.
