

Dad

You lived where the sun met the land,
A true cowboy soul, steady and free.
Boots worn by work, heart open wide—
That's how you showed love to me.

Horseback rides, just you and me,
The sound of hooves, the open sky.
Those moments still ride beside me now,
Like you're never really gone—just riding ahead.

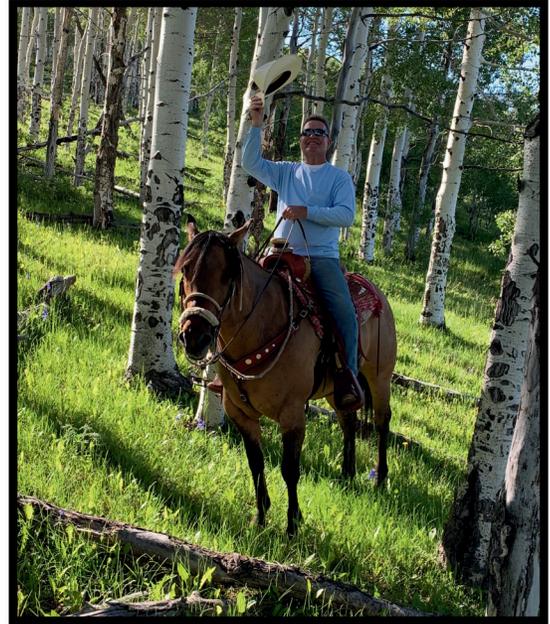

You loved your horse, your old Jeeps,
Softball days and a game on a big TV screen.
You saved your money, valued the simple things,
And somehow made life feel safe and seen.

You loved your grandchildren with quiet pride,
The same steady love you gave so true.
But the greatest gift you ever gave
Was loving me unconditionally by just being you.

I carry you in the way I live,
In the strength you never had to say.
My cowboy,
My dad,
My forever,
With me, always, every day.

I love you dad
Marcy
