My 3-Way Mirror

I needed a skirt so went shopping and with that came my discovery. I stepped into a 3-way mirror and was so surprised at what I saw - so sad - I checked again and saw the same person. I had no idea how the whole me looked. Yes, I have several mirrors in my home, but I only saw one part of me as I check my hair or one side at a time in my full length mirror. Right then I realized how important the whole person is; the mental, physical, and spiritual. One part isn't enough to be concerned about; it does not give the true picture.
